IPMA Young Crew

We are a network of young professionals and students up to 35 years old, enthusiastic about project management. The Young Crew is a key component in IPMA development and the formation of tomorrow's leaders.

We develop and promote the project management profession amongst the young and emerging community by:

- Developing one's competencies in project, program and portfolio management.
- Giving global recognition to member's accomplishment from working in projects, programs, and portfolios.
- Advising member's career in project, program and portfolio management.
- Setting an environment to network and interact with the global project management world

Events

Global PM Days is a 2-day online event that enhances project management skills through expert-led sessions, practical learning, and networking with global professionals.

The Global Young Crew Workshop is an annual event uniting young project management professionals worldwide for networking, knowledge exchange, and collaborative learning.

The Global eCollaboration Competition (GeCCo) is a 24-hour virtual project management competition, fostering teamwork, cultural awareness, and skill development among young professionals globally.

YPMY (Young Project Manager of the Year) celebrates exceptional project managers aged 18-35, highlighting their professional excellence, leadership, and innovation in project management.

PMC in a Nutshell

The International Project Management Championship is a global competition dedicated to students to take on each other's skills in project management in both a professional and fun way. Through the IPMC, IPMA Young Crew develops young project professionals and actively promotes project management to business and organizations at the global level.

With that in mind, after the Greek team's win in Poland in 2025, we are honored with the privilege of hosting the 2026 PMC Finals in Athens, Greece.
